

SPEAKER: Hi, and welcome to the Student Hub Live website. The Student Hub Live is one of the ways to interact with our academic community. Although this is for OU students, anyone can access these events, and everyone is welcome.

On this website, you can see what we have planned and the events that we've run in the past. So what generally happens at the Student Hub Live events? Well, when an event is live, you can access it from the Watch Now button that will appear on the website.

From half an hour before each event goes live, you can sign in with your student login details and password, and you arrive at something like this. You will then see the discussion that's happening in the studio, what everyone is talking about in the chat. And they'll also be interactive widgets that you can use to tell us what you think.

You can be as active as you want to be. And equally, you can step away from the sessions that might not interest you.

What makes these events so unique and enjoyable is hearing a range of opinions. It's also a good place to ask questions and maybe answer other people's questions. There is a watch-only option, but that will only give you access to the video. And you can find out about that from the Frequently Asked Questions section.

Recordings of each event are available on catch up if you aren't able to attend the event in real-time. And you can use our Events tab to filter the options. You can also subscribe to our list. And we'll email you about future events.

The Frequently Asked Questions section should answer most of your questions. But if there's something we haven't covered, please email us and we'll get right back to you. We look forward to seeing you at a Student Hub Live event soon.
