The Open University | Study skills bootcamp – essay writing. 22nd October, 2018 trailer

KAREN FOLEY: On the 22nd of October, we have an online student hub live event for new and continuing OU students. And we have a range of sessions that will focus on aspects of academic writing. This event will give you an opportunity to focus on your own writing and hear academics and other student's suggestions. We'll focus on components of an essay, including introductions and conclusions, and also take a look at a variety of ways to approach some of the common process words that you may meet in your assessment, like describe, evaluate, and compare and contrast.

Our guests in the studio will share their knowledge and experience. But most importantly, you can meet other students and talk about your own tips and techniques in the chat room while the event is live.

The event is online, interactive, and open to everyone. You can find out more on the website, which is also where you access the event when it is live. If you have a question you'd like to ask in advance, just email us. And if you can't attend on the day, then the videos will be available on Catch Up afterwards, with all the other sessions we've run in the past on our YouTube channel.